Failed To Dim Lights, Claim; Pays $35 Fine

Charged with failure to dim his automobile headlights and with speeding, Henry Rasmussen, arrested yesterday, pleaded guilty to both charges when he was arraigned before Judge C. E. Unruh in the justice court this morning.
He paid a fine of $35.

Rasmussen, who was arrested by a state officer, said that he was driving an automobile which had no "dimmers," but Judge Unruh pointed out the fact that, where an automobile has no such equipment, the law requires that it shall have a spotlight which shall be used when the headlights are turned out.

"Failure to 'dim' headlights is a more serious matter than is commonly believed," Judge Unruh said following the arraignment, "and we are going to do everything possible to see that motorists obey the law in this respect. There have been far too many accidents growing out of blinding headlights."

Builder of Ferry Build Passes Away

San Francisco, Oct. 31.—Messages of condolence are being received from many points today at the home of Howard Carlton Holmes, 67, builder of the union ferry building docks here, the cable railways in Spokane and Portland and the Madison street railway in Seattle, who died yesterday after an illness of several weeks. Holmes was prominent nationally as a civil and consulting engineer.

In 1904 Holmes was commissioned to report on floating docks for Boston. He also planned the Canadian government drydock at Victoria. He was born at Nantucket, Mass., and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Josephine Bauer Holmes.

Blind Lad Strolls Away From School;

Lorrie Millsapugh, 16-year-old pupil at the state school for the blind here, got lost yesterday.
Lorrie started out for a walk and unfortunately got into strange territory. When he did not return to the school when expected, officials became worried and sought the assistance of the Salem police.

A short while later officers were notified by the school that Lorrie had been found.

o'clock in the afternoon at the armory, instead of the evening, according to T. J. Condo, chairman

The business men have agreed to close in the afternoon and the event is expected to be well attended. The program has not been fully arranged but will consist largely of music featuring the songs of different wars and nations, with the principal speech

Home Nest Is

ed and undisturbed by the litter of trash and dead weeds. Immediately in front of the house are well kept beds of flowers and, trailing their way up strings to the eaves on the north side of the house are newly planted vines.

Homecoming Awaited

Inside the house—it covers a floor space of approximately 30 feet square—clean and neat canvas partitions divide the big room into four smaller ones. There is a living room, a large bedroom where Mr. and Mrs. Mowry, the twins and Harold sleep, a commodious dining room and kitchen, and the little room with the enameled bed and its fresh sheets and pillows that await the return of Thelma and Violet.

The walls of the home are tight, there are no cracks where rain can drip thru the roof, carpets cover the floors and a big stove keeps the whole interior warm to its most distant corner. Dirt? Yes, there is some there, on the floor by the door like there is in any other home where a five year old boy plays in the yard and runs in and out to call his mother's attention to the boat he has made or the flower he has found. Just that much dirt and a smore.

Clothes Are Ready

Most of these improvements around the little place have been made by Mr. Mowry, who rises before daylight these autumn mornings, does much of the work around the house and yard, labors as a wood cutter during the day and again turns his attention to the little home and the children in the evening.

Mrs. Mowry is soon to be the mother of another child and she cannot do much of the heavy work. But she has not been idle since January. A well stocked chest of children's clothes, dresses, coats and underclothes for the absent—girls, standink close against the wall in the living room bears testimony to that.

But Thelma Perry still drudges for the Deaconess hospital and her sister is still held in Portland.
